ACTIVITIES GUIDE

Special sights and age-old secrets of Paros

EKATONTAPYLIANI CHURCH, PARIKIA

Situated in Parikia, the capital of Paros and founded in the early 4th century AD. Its name "Ekatontapiliani" means the Church with the Hundred Doors. According to tradition, the church has 99 doors, and a secret door will open when the church of Ayia Sofia in Istanbul will become Orthodox again.

THE FRANKISH CASTLE, PARIKIA

Built in the 1200s on what scholars believed to be the basis of an ancient temple, that is dated all the way back to 530 BC. It stands out for its splendid architecture. Needless to say, a visit to Paros is incomplete without a visit to this magnificent castle which stands as mute testimony to the rich virile past of Paros.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL MUSEUM, PARIKIA

The Archaeological Museum of Paros was founded in 1960. Its findings date from the Neolithic period to early Christianity, and include: the Nike of Paros, The Fat Lady of Saliagos, several Cycladic figurines, mosaics, the Archaic marble statue Gorgon, the poet Archilochus, amphorae from a Parian workshop, deities and many more.

ANCIENT MARBLE QUARRIES, MARATHI

An interior road from Lefkes and Marpissa leads to the renowned marble quarries of Marathi. This is the place where one of the finest varieties of marble is found. Some of the greatest masterpieces like the world-famous Venus de Milo and Hermes of Praxiteles were sculpted using the Parian marble.

FOLKLORE ART MUSEUM OF CYCLADIC CIVILIZATION, ALIKI

Curated by Benetos Skiadas, a traditional local artist. He has depicted Cycladic history with large miniatures of ships and important buildings with unrivaled art and workmanship. Visitors can admire his creations of the Cycladic tradition into a beautiful garden full of olive trees, amaranths and woodbine.
